* If you select the Necesses benefit option, you must indicate your gross monthly income below and include proof thereof.

Gross monthly income – only for the Necesses benefit option

Gross monthly income (member)	<input type="text"/>	Occupation (member)	<input type="text"/>
Gross monthly income (spouse/partner)	<input type="text"/>	Occupation (spouse/partner)	<input type="text"/>

For the purpose of the Necesses benefit option, "monthly income" means the gross monthly income before any deductions.

Proof of income must only be provided if the monthly income of both the applicant and the registered spouse/partner is less than the highest income category, since Medihelp will use the highest of the incomes declared to determine the subscription category.

Acceptable proof of income:

Income from investments (This income must be declared by all individuals, if applicable, and includes interest, dividends and rental income):

- Letter from an auditor/accountant/income tax adviser
- Latest tax assessment – ITA34
- IT3(a) and the past three months' bank statements
- Rental income (the rental agreement and past three months' bank statements)

Full-time students:

- A notice or letter on an official letterhead from the tertiary institution where you are registered as a full-time student
- Proof of income applicable to individuals

Unemployed (Individuals who receive no income from a vocation/profession/business, who are unemployed or receive an allowance):

- UIF payments

Employer groups:

- Any proof of income applicable to individuals as indicated above

Important:

- If no acceptable proof of your and your spouse's/partner's income (if applicable) is submitted, your subscription will be calculated according to the highest income category.
- Medihelp can require additional proof other than the above.
- Only official bank statements on which the account holder's initials and surname are indicated, are acceptable. Please indicate clearly on the bank statements which payment(s) refer to your income.
